Lab Manager, Social and Moral Cognition Lab, Columbia University (NOTE: Fall 2016 start date)

Under the supervision of Larisa Heiphetz, the lab manager will provide assistance with research in Columbia’s Social and Moral Cognition Lab. Studies in our lab focus on children’s and adults’ religious and moral cognition, the development of intergroup attitudes, and perceptions of the criminal justice system.

The lab manager will assist with research and perform administrative duties. Typical research responsibilities include creating stimuli, recruiting participants, collecting data, and entering/coding results. Typical administrative responsibilities include organizing and maintaining a participant database, ordering supplies, and facilitating the preparation of forms and reports (e.g., IRB documentation). In addition to assisting with on-going projects, the lab manager will have an opportunity to develop his or her own studies.

This is a one-year position with the strong expectation of renewal for a second year and possibility of further renewals for additional years. Start date can be arranged with the PI and is expected to be 8/1/2016 or 9/1/2016. Review of applications will begin November 15, 2015, and will continue until the position is filled.

Minimum qualifications (applicant MUST meet these minimum qualifications to be considered an applicant):
Bachelor’s degree in psychology, cognitive science, or related discipline (degree must be received by the start date)
Eligibility to work in the United States

Preferred qualifications:
Research interests in social cognitive development, religious cognition, moral cognition, intergroup attitudes, and/or the criminal justice system
Prior research experience

Compensation/benefits:
Salary will be based on Columbia University’s guidelines. The lab manager will also be eligible for benefits; see http://hr.columbia.edu/benefits.
