Temporary - Undergraduate Research Assistant (Requisition # 2020-11415)
Department: Psychology
Category: Research and Laboratory
Full-Time / Part-Time: Temporary
Name of Lab: Princeton Baby Lab

The Baby Lab of Dr. Lauren Emberson and Dr. Casey Lew-Williams in the Department of Psychology is seeking motivated and organized undergraduate research assistants to join our team for the summer. This position is a full-time position for at least 8 weeks over the summer.

Studies in the lab focus on questions of infant language development, perception, and learning. Tasks will include managing the lab phones and email for participant recruitment and scheduling, data collection and entry, and interacting with the infant and families during their visits to the lab. In addition, undergraduate research assistants will be paired with a research mentor in the lab. The research assistants will work with their mentors to develop research questions and contribute to ongoing research projects within the lab.

Work hours will include a weekly lab meeting to discuss relevant studies and allow RAs to further learn about the research process. While no previous research experience is required, it would be advantageous. Bilingual Spanish speakers are highly encouraged to apply.
