Volunteer Internship in Substance Use Disorders at MGH’s Recovery Research Institute

The Recovery Research Institute at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Harvard Medical School (www.recoveryanswers.org) is recruiting candidates for a 2-semester (or more) volunteer internship. This person—who will primarily work with David Eddie, Ph.D.—will assist with various research tasks on National Institute of Health (NIH) funded substance use disorder studies. Tasks may include participant screening, post processing of electrocardiogram recordings, data management, scientific literature reviews, and other administrative duties. These tasks require abilities to engage in problem solving and innovative thinking, as well as clear and timely communication and flexibility. Students should aim to receive supervised research credits from the university for at least one of their semesters of internship participation. Successful applicants would be able to start in Summer, 2019.

Please direct expressions of interest or questions to David Eddie, Ph.D. at deddie@mgh.harvard.edu.
