

Clinical Research Assistant in the Anxiety Disorders Center at the Institute of Living/Hartford Hospital

The Anxiety Disorders Center at the Institute of Living/Hartford Hospital is seeking a Clinical Research Assistant to coordinate projects in psychological and psychiatric research. This is a full-time position with primary responsibilities on multiple studies on the nature and treatment of anxiety- and mood-related disorders. Projects may include psychophysiology, neuroimaging, and/or treatment outcome studies investigating the nature and cognitive-behavioral treatment of anxiety and related disorders, including suicide prevention. Duties will include participant recruitment, preparation of study materials, collecting study data, and database management. Other responsibilities may include assisting with grant writing, data analysis, and manuscript preparation with opportunities to co-author conference presentations and journal articles. This position requires work on-site at the Institute of Living.

Qualifications include a BA/BS in psychology or related field. An advanced degree beyond the BA/BS is not needed. Successful candidates will demonstrate a conscientious work style and strong interpersonal skills. This is an excellent entry-level position for a college graduate who is interested in gaining additional research experience before going on to graduate study.

Anticipated start date is June 2025. Please e-mail cover letter and resume/curriculum vitae to: Gretchen J. Diefenbach, Ph.D. at Gretchen.Diefenbach@hhchealth.org.
