

Dekel Laboratory, MGH Psychiatry Department, Seeking Clinical Research Coordinator

The Postpartum Traumatic Stress Disorders Research Program and the Dekel Laboratory (<https://massgeneral.link/DekelLab>) in the Department of Psychiatry at Massachusetts General Hospital study maternal psychopathology following the singular event of childbirth. Our program aims to develop empirically based interventions and accurate screening tools for the early identification of women at risk for postpartum mental illness, with the goal of reducing maternal psychiatric morbidity.

We are seeking a Clinical Research Coordinator to play a key role in two large-scale, NIH-funded clinical research studies focused on maternal psychopathology at the intersection of psychiatry, obstetrics, and pediatrics. The coordinator will be involved in all phases of clinical research, including participant recruitment, data collection, study coordination, and regulatory activities and contribute to manuscripts preparation and grant submissions, as needed.

Interested candidates are encouraged to contact Dr. Sharon Dekel at sdekel@mgh.harvard.edu to learn more about this position and other research opportunities in the lab. This is a full-time position, with a start date as soon as possible, or no later than Summer 2026.
