

POST-BACCALAUREATE RESEARCH POSITION

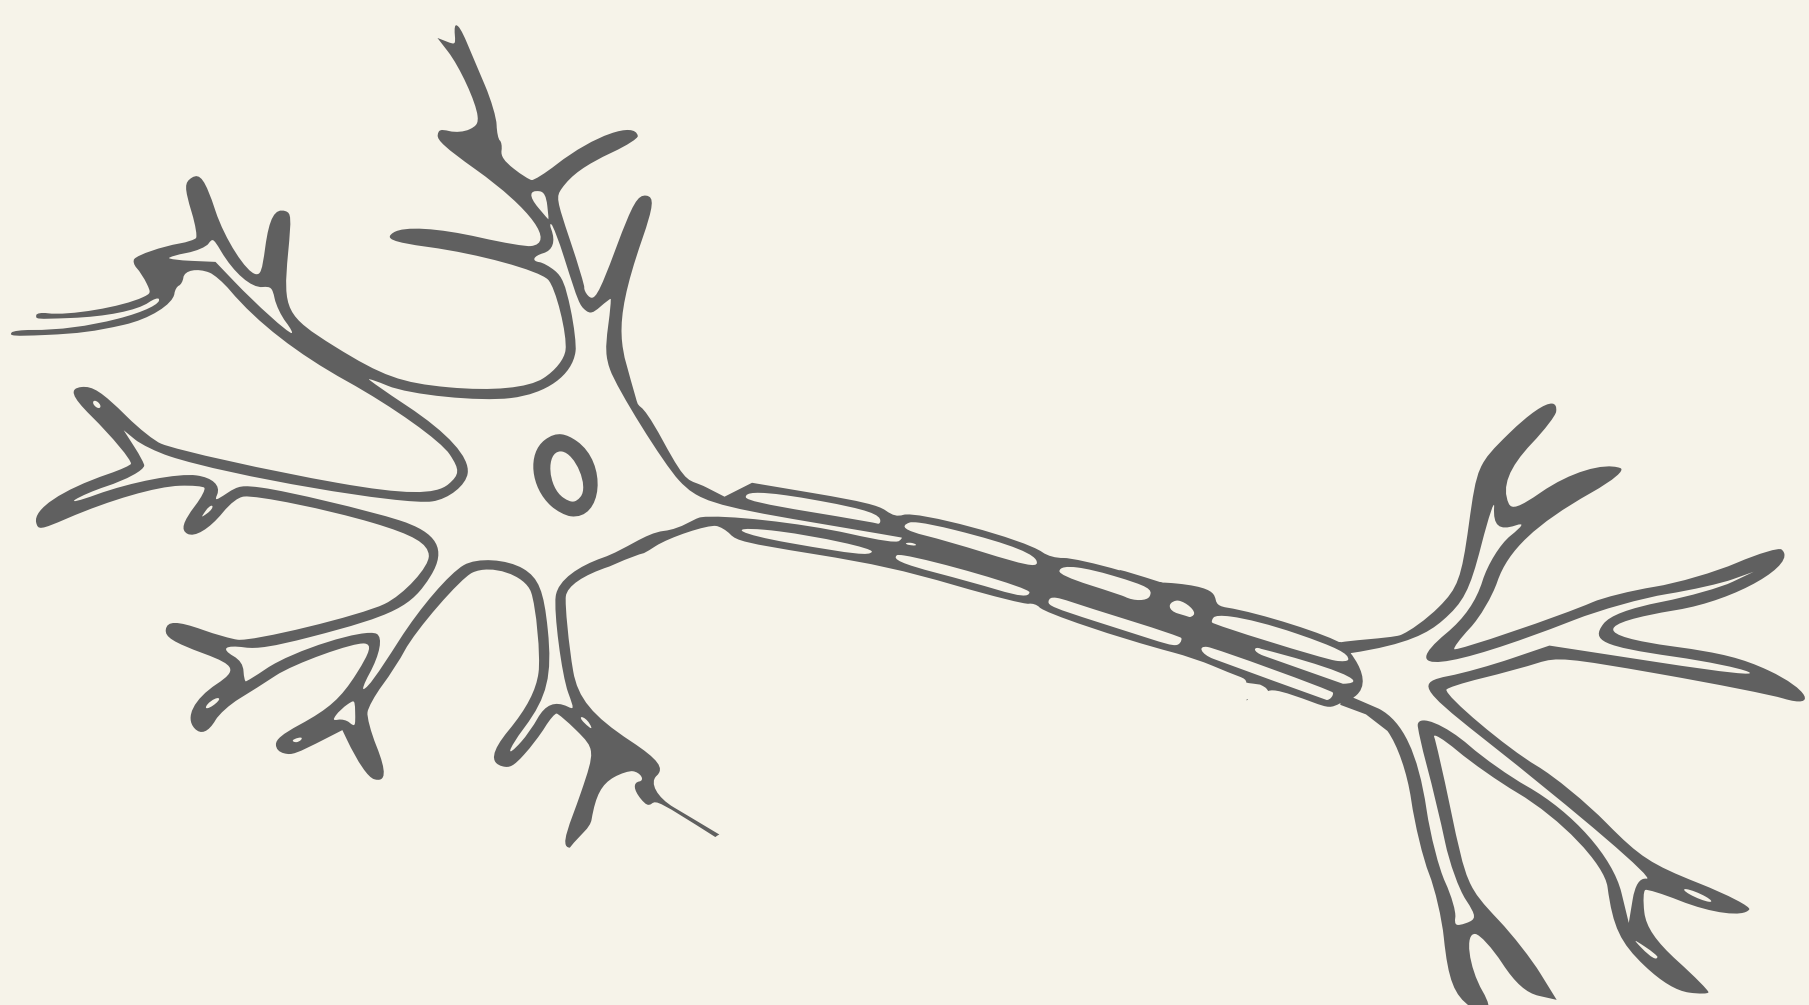

Translational Emotion Neuroscience and Development Lab
San Diego State University

RESEARCH AND LAB DESCRIPTION:

Drs. Jillian Lee Wiggins (San Diego State University) and Lea Dougherty (University of Maryland College Park) and the Translational Emotion Neuroscience and Development Lab in the Department of Psychology at San Diego State University (SDSU) in San Diego, CA is seeking to hire a full-time post-baccalaureate research assistant for an NIMH-funded research project examining neural mechanisms of risk and resilience in early childhood irritability.

We use functional and structural MRI methods, observational laboratory-based measures, and clinical diagnostic interviews. Interested applicants should reside in the San Diego area and be available for in-person work, and should be able to commute to SDSU. Ideal start date would be no later than September 2024.

REQUIREMENTS & INFO FOR APPLYING:

Successful candidates should have keen attention to detail; ability to work professionally with parents and children; and strong organization, problem solving, and interpersonal skills. Prior experience or familiarity with fMRI scanning and proficiency in Microsoft Excel is preferred. Prior background in psychology, development, or neuroscience is also a plus but not required.

Responsibilities will include: (1) conducting experiments in young children via fMRI data collection; (2) overseeing participant retention and maintaining communications with families; (3) contributing to administrative duties of the lab; and/or (4) assisting with IRB correspondence, research protocols, and compliance. A two-year commitment is required; the contract is renewable contingent on performance and funding.

Interested individuals should email a cover letter, CV, and names and contact information of 3 references to Jillian Lee Wiggins at tendlab@sdsu.edu. Please include all documents in a single pdf file and include your last name in the file (i.e., "LASTNAME.pdf").

SDSU is an equal opportunity affirmative action employer with a commitment to racial, cultural, and gender diversity. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.
