Research Coordinator in the Alcohol and Sexual Assault Prevention (ASAP) Lab at Georgia State University

Georgia State University is hiring a Research Coordinator to coordinate alcohol research in the School of Public Health. The Research Coordinator will work on alcohol research with men in the military and community samples gaining hands on experience in complex experimental protocols. The Research Coordinator will advance their career or prepare for graduate school through scholarly opportunities in analyzing scientific data, writing scientific papers, and working with alcohol researchers across the country. Preferred qualifications include previous research and leadership experience to join our team! Minimum hiring qualifications include a bachelor's degree in a related field, or a combination of education and experience. To apply, please send a letter of interest and CV to Dr. Amanda Gilmore (agilmore12@gsu.edu) and Dr. Nicole Mullican (kmullican@gsu.edu).

This position is housed in the Alcohol and Sexual Assault Prevention (ASAP) Lab in the National Center for Sexual Violence Prevention in Georgia State University's Mark Chaffin Center for Healthy Development in the School of Public Health. The ASAP Lab is located on GSU's downtown campus in Atlanta, GA.