

Research Assistant at Bradley Hospital/Brown Medical School

Description: "We are looking for a highly motivated, independent person to join our team in late May or early June as a full-time psychology assistant here at the Children's Partial Hospital Program at Bradley Hospital. Bradley Hospital is a part of the Brown University Health (formerly Lifespan) system and is an affiliate of the Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University. This is a great position for someone looking to pursue a doctorate in psychology who is passionate about working with children and interested in exposure to acute psychiatric care.

Responsibilities include administering admission and discharge assessments to children ages 7-12, administering additional assessments as needed, managing a large database and IRB paperwork, and supporting clinical research projects. There are opportunities for data analysis, manuscript and poster preparation, and conference presentations. Patients have a broad range of mental health conditions, including depression, anxiety, PTSD/trauma, ADHD, and the PA also assists on the therapeutic milieu. Research topics include childhood adversity, parenting, sleep health, and equity and access to acute mental health care.

Qualifications for this position include an undergraduate BA or BS psychology (or related) degree, interest in pursuing graduate education in psychology, proficient with Microsoft Excel and Word, ability to work independently as well as collaborate with a team, be detail-oriented, and communicate efficiently. Knowledge of SPSS and REDCAP is preferred.
