

Research Coordinator in the Body Image and Stigma Lab at the University of Florida

This position serves as Research Coordinator II for the Body Image and Stigma Lab in the Department of Clinical and Health Psychology at the University of Florida. The successful candidate will be responsible for the coordination and implementation of an NIH-funded clinical trial as directed by the principal investigator, Dr. Rebecca Peral. The trial will evaluate the effects of a group psychological intervention for internalized stigma among participants with a range of health conditions (including obesity, diabetes, HIV, skin diseases, chronic pain, and cancers). Opportunities may be available to be involved in other NIH-funded studies related to stigma and obesity. This individual will be expected to support subject recruitment, intervention delivery, data collection, data entry and serve as a liaison to internal and external stakeholders.
