

Research Assistant at UMASS Amherst

Location: University of Massachusetts Amherst / Amherst MA

I'm seeking a full-time research staff to coordinate NIH funded research for 2-years (contingent on renewal) with a May or June start date in Amherst, MA at UMass.

Primary tasks will be related to an ongoing NIMH-funded study of predictors of suicidal thoughts and behaviors in daily life (assessed via behavioral tasks, ecological momentary assessment, and wearables) among patients seen in the emergency department. There are also opportunities to participate in other NIMH-funded research on DBT skills training.

Tasks include:

(1) overseeing study protocol development and adherence, (2) recruitment and data collection, (3) assisting with DSMB and IRB reporting.

The staff member will receive training in suicidal risk management, diagnostic interviewing, DBT, and have the opportunity to contribute to manuscript development. This is a great position for people looking to apply to clinical PhD programs.

Candidates must have past psychology research experience, with a preferred minimum of a Bachelor's degree in psychology. Preferred experience in SPSS, license to travel to local hospitals, EMA.

Reviewing applications immediately!
